

LASERS IN DENTISTRY

Dania Ahmad Alhajji

Mustaqbal University, Saudi Arabia, Saudi Arabia

Abstract

The increasing concern and the search for conservative dental treatments have resulted in the development of several new technologies as lasers. Numerous researchers have investigated laser applications in dentistry in the past five decades. With better understanding of biological tissue responses, the possibilities of a clinician using lasers in a range of dental procedures have increased, varying from soft tissue to hard tissue procedures.

Received: January 18, 2022; Accepted: January 28, 2022; Published: January 28, 2022

Biography

The Dania Ahmad Alhajji is a senior research fellow at the Institute of Dentistry Student at Al Mustaqbal university, Saudi Arabia.